About marriage – The life of Mine

thelifeofmine3.wordpress.com/2023/08/17/about-marriage/

August 17, 2023

22-9-13

At that age 17, I was perplexed by the prospect of marriage and that relationship. Amma once said that we (me and my brother) would abandon them in the future, so they should not rely on us. Prabu, one of my cousins, came home the next day and made house arrangements. He inquired as to whether or not my marriage preparations had begun. When I saw Amma and his wife, I was shocked and felt awkward. They had already fixed their gaze on my reaction.
Pradeep and Sai even said I'd forget about them if I found a man. Then I realised I was going to lose everyone if I got into a relationship. Not even Kalpana, one of my friends,said the same.

I thought God had given me a good family, good friends, and everything I needed at that age. It seemed like more than enough to me. I know I'm not a normal girl to expect all of this. It is even unnecessary to consider this at the time. I can't plan that far ahead because I don't know what will happen in my life the next day. I even considered abandoning this nonsense talk and the concept of emotions. I was thinking about it a lot after a couple of days. Then i convinced myself saying…

"Why fear, When God is near"

Actually it was a cini dialog… I remaked it😅